Be Guided by what you Know. There is an old proverb which says, "Experi-ence is the safest guide. To this guide the sick and faiting naturally turn when casting about fo he means of relief, They inquire what a medicine has done for others, before they adopt it themselves. Of all the remedies and preventives in use, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters meets the test mos triumphantly, and hence its immense pepularity and vast sales. The sufferer from indigestion sure to find some one among his friends who has been cured of that ailment by the famous vegetable stomschie. The victim of fever and ague, liver complaint, constipation, nervous prostration, or general debility, has only to make inquiry in the general debility, has only to make Inquiry in the neighborhood where he resides in order to discover what this standard restorative has effected in cases similar to his own. In the published testimony to its sanitary properties, which it is impossible for his common sense to resist. He tries it, and the effect it produces on his system adds another to the host of witnesses in its favor. Thus, its reputation, founded on facts, not assertions, continually grows and spreads, Charlatans and impostors, some of them mere local tricaters, and others who take a somewhat wider range. Hempt to thrust into the hands and down the throats of individuals, their haphazard concections, as ambetates for the tonic hands and down the throats of individuals, their hapharard concections, as substitles for the tonic which for so many years has been a medical staple throughout the United States, Spanlih America, Canada, and the West Indies, but only succeed to a very limited extent. In this reasoning age, the people, having ascertained what is really deserv-ing of their confidence, decline "running after strange gods."

Impaired vitality. When you feel as if the vital powers were giving away, strength gone, spirits depressed, memory failing, appetite lost, exhaustion stealing over every sense and paralizing every energy, then is the time to reserve that powerful ally of nature Dr. Walking's Vectariate Vinegar Bilters.
